Genre: Fantasy/Realistic Fiction

I just finished reading the "Daring Escapes of the Misfit Menagerie" by Jaqueline Resnick. It's about a sun bear called Smalls, an Angora rabbit called Tilda, a Hairy Nosed Wombat called Wombat (but he likes to call himself Fred) and Rigby a dog who looks a lot like a mop. In the story a mean man called Claude wants the animals so that he can earn money from them so he takes them away from their owner Mumford. The animals are taken away to a circus where they are made to work very hard. Suddenly someone buys the circus from Claude and they are about to be shipped across the ocean further and further away from Mumford. It all depends on whether they are able to plan well enough for all of them to survive and how they can escape before they are shipped away from their home.

I think you will enjoy reading it as I love books in which the author uses a lot of adjectives. If you like that style too then you will enjoy the book for sure.
